

Green Shipping Day

Connect. Innovate. Progress.

A European reference event

More than a conference, the Green Shipping Day is designed as a strategic forum bringing together shipowners, ports, shipyards, industrial solution providers, financial actors, European institutions, and scientific and environmental stakeholders.

Over its six previous editions, the event has gathered nearly 600 participants - including 250 attendees in 2025 alone - reflecting its growing scale and maturity year after year.

Heading to the Port of Nice!

In 2026, Green Marine Europe's annual event enters a new phase with a new name: Green Shipping Day, now a key European meeting point for the environmental transition of maritime transport.

A full day bringing together maritime leaders, shipowners, ports, shipyards, public decision-makers, researchers and financial actors to exchange on the sector's transition.

This edition also introduces a new format: alongside the plenary conference, two workshops on resilient ports and marine biodiversity, designed to enhance interaction and foster more operational discussions among participants. The day will conclude with a walking dinner, offering a privileged moment for networking and informal exchanges.

Key themes

The 2026 edition, hosted in Nice, will focus on several key dynamics shaping the maritime transition:

- blue tourism, coastal territories and social acceptability ;
- financing the maritime transition ;
- resilient ports and infrastructure ;
- biodiversity, underwater noise and cetacean protection ;
- ship lifecycle, circularity and integrated maritime value chains ;
- certification, credibility and environmental performance.

Positioning

The Green Shipping Day is built on the quality of exchanges, the diversity of stakeholders and the credibility of its content.

The sponsorship framework is designed to preserve this balance by ensuring editorial independence, equal networking opportunities and visibility aligned with the strategic substance of the event.

To maintain this positioning, the number of partners is intentionally limited, with a maximum of two Blue Horizon Partners, alongside a restricted number of Ocean Transition and Marine Commitment Partners. The 2025 edition was supported by leading maritime stakeholders, including Armateurs de France, CFC Croisières, Brittany Ferries, Ponant and the Lisnave shipyard, as official sponsors of the event.
